

ON WRITING

New Media, Multimodal Scholarship, and Becoming Crafty Digital Writers

Multimodal digital projects have been increasingly integrated in curricula across the university.

This panel will explore how to cultivate the skills associated with their composition. Please join us for a conversation with Derek Bruff (Director at the Vanderbilt Center for Teaching), Melissa Mallon (Director of Peabody Library and Director of Teaching & Learning, VU Libraries), Ole Molvig (Assistant Professor of History and Assistant Director for the Vanderbilt Institute for Digital Learning) and Kellie Cavagnaro (Mellon Digital Humanities Graduate Fellow) as we discuss ways to support writers in multimodal composition.

Wednesday, November 7 | 4:15 pm

Seigenthaler Lecture Hall, Room 116

An RSVP to simone.mccarter@vanderbilt.edu is appreciated, but not required.
